Library program valuable

POSTED: January 13, 2010

I wanted to take a few moments to thank and bring notice to the fantastic program and people at the Gloversville library.

As a mother and aunt of 3 1/2-year-old boys, we look forward to the weekly story and craft time that is held upstairs in the historically beautiful Carnegie Hall.

It is a wonderful opportunity for the children to prepare for school and learn the lessons of manners and following directions that they will need to know when they start preschool in the fall.

I have lived in other states and participated in other story times. This program and the volunteers involved far exceed any other. I hope that it can continue and not lose its support as I feel it is very valuable to the children in our community.

Thank you again to our library and its friends for providing us this time to laugh, play and learn.
